

JUAN A.

Juan Amaury Vásquez is a highly experienced Lead Special Agent with over two decades of expertise in national security and specialized investigations, particularly in the fight against human trafficking. His extensive career includes certifications as an investigator and a strategic consultant in intelligence, cyberintelligence, and counterintelligence, positioning him as a critical asset in both field operations and advisory capacities.

Juan's instructional experience is vast, having taught at elite institutions such as the National Intelligence School, Naval Intelligence School, National Drug Control Academy, Military Academy Batallas de las Carreras, and the National Police Higher Institute.

A graduate of the International Security and Defense Campus (CISDE) in Spain, Juan specializes in cyberintelligence and serves as a security consultant for the United Nations Department for Safety and Security (UNDSS). His strategic leadership in security and counterterrorism, particularly as Senior Director for Latin America at the International Anti-Terrorism Professionals Association, underscores his proficiency in safeguarding organizations and individuals in high-stakes situations.